Banner Initiative—Automate Journal Entry Approvals

To further automate business processes, improve processing time, and increase productivity, Financial Services will introduce automated journal entry approvals in the near future. A team is diligently working together to determine approval queues and appropriate routing for financial journal entries. Approvals will be based on organization and fund codes used within the journal entry document. Training will be available for journal entry preparers and approvers. As the project moves forward, Financial Services will share more information regarding the new automated journal entry process.
